Norma Mitchell, the star of "Yes, My Darling Daughter," played here several seasons ago in "Post Road." She was also the author of that popular comedy drama and, in private life, is the wife of Writer Wilbur Daniel Steele . . . Muriel Campbell, making her first appearance here, is one of Broadway's most popular actresses. In rapid succession she played in "Three Men on a Horse," "Having Wonderful Time," "Stage Door" and "The Women". . . Haila Stoddard, our leading lady of last year, played the part in the New York production of "Yes, My Darling Daughter," that Judie Parrish is playing now . . . We have been told that Louise Campbell, one of the best liked young ladies ever to play at Ivoryton, has just become the bride of actor Horace McMahon. Louise is now working under a long term contract for Paramount motion pictures . . . If you want to see the funny side of show business, don't miss "Room Service," our next attraction. This will be the first stock showing for this record breaking play which closed on Broadway last Saturday night. They are making a movie of "Room Service," with the Marx Brothers playing the leading roles. That should give you an idea of the sort of play it is.
